The staff at Caswell Memorial State Park welcomes you! To ensure your visit is pleasant, help us by including the following:

Welcome to Caswell Memorial State Park, a small, wild refuge in the midst of the great Central Valley of California. Located six miles southwest of Ripon, this unique state park protects one of the last remaining oak-riparian woodlands that once flourished throughout the valley.

The Stanislaus River meanders through the park, with beaches and swimming areas near the park's day-use and campground facilities (no lifeguard service available). Valley temperatures reach the high 90s in the summer, but the park's shaded camping and picnic areas are often 10 degrees cooler. Family and group picnic facilities are available.

Fishing is popular here, as many species thrive in the slow-moving, muddy-bottomed river. Some of the fish species were introduced from the eastern United States in years past. Summertime fishing yields largemouth, smallmouth and striped bass, bullhead, sturgeon, bluegill, catfish, shad and buffalo carp.

Explore the park by walking the trails that meander through the majestic oak forest and along the Stanislaus River. A trail map is available at the ranger station.

PLEASE REMEMBER

- Each campsite is limited to eight people and two licensed vehicles. All vehicles must stay on designated roadways.
- All vehicles and drivers must be licensed. Campground speed limit is 15 mph.
- Dogs must be leashed at all times, and in a tent or vehicle at night. Please clean up after your pet.
- Loud noise and music are prohibited at all times. Quiet hours are between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m.
